

Usability test sheet for Onefinestay website(<https://www.onefinestay.com>)

Participant Information:

Age: 26

Gender: Male

Occupation: Student

Task Scenarios:

Task 1: Search and Compare Hotels for a Weekend Getaway

Scenario: You're planning a weekend getaway and need to find luxurious accommodations for your trip.

User Feedback: User was able to easily navigate the web page, and attempted to book a hotel, for 2 days for London, but in return, the website displayed a message saying you need to book at least 3 days for London. User felt in this type of hotel booking page, it is difficult to find the hotels which offer 2 days stay.

Task 2: Explore Special Deals and Offers

Scenario: You're interested in finding any special deals or discounts offered by Onefinestay for your upcoming trip.

User Feedback: User was easily able to navigate to the offers page, as it was there in the navigation pane which was on the top of the web page. In the offers page, the user was able to see all the cities with the offers and he was able to investigate each of the offers.

Task 3: Review and Compare User Reviews

Scenario: You want to ensure the property you're considering has positive reviews from previous guests.

User Feedback: This website has no reviews for hotels, and user felt the need of the reviews.

Post-Task Questions:

1. How easy or difficult was it to complete the tasks assigned?

Easy

2. What features or aspects of Onefinestay did you find most helpful during the tasks?

The easy of navigation to all the pages on the website and design made the user to complete most of the tasks

3. Were there any features or options that were confusing or difficult to use?

There is no review page for the website, as a user I would want to see the review of the property I will be booking.

4. How satisfied are you with the overall usability of Trivago?

Satisfied

5. Would you consider using Trivago again for booking accommodations in the future?- Yes
